Ongoing Discussions Continue on the Next Large Coronavirus Package

Lawmakers remain at odds about when the next coronavirus relief package should be taken up, and what provisions the bill should contain. Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell (R-Ky.) recently stated that he will not include an extension for enhanced unemployment benefits, as was contained in the $3 trillion House-passed measure that the GOP has rejected. While administration officials have acknowledged that more stimulus legislation will likely be necessary for the U.S. economy, Republicans have indicated that they are not in a hurry to pass more relief and instead are in favor of gauging the impact of previously passed stimulus packages before considering additional legislation.

House to Consider PPP Changes This Week

The House of Representatives plans to consider the Paycheck Protection Program Flexibility Act of 2020 (H.R. 6886) under suspension of the rules this week. The bipartisan bill introduced by Reps. Dean Phillips (D-Minn.) and Chip Roy (R-Texas) will make changes to the Paycheck Protection Program (PPP) to make it more accessible and provide more flexibility to PPP loans. Although there is no such requirement in the statute, the SBA created a requirement that 75% of loan proceeds must be spent on payroll, which means there is a cap of 25% of non-payroll allowed uses. H.R. 6886 would repeal the 75/25 rule. The bill would extend the loan period eligible for forgiveness from 8 weeks to 24 weeks. Current statute also creates a reduction in forgiveness for employers who have reduced their employee headcount. However, if an employer rehires its employees by June 30, this reduction in forgiveness can be eliminated. This legislation would extend the rehire period to December 31. Administration officials and Senate Republicans, including Small Business Committee Chair Marco Rubio (R-Fla.), have expressed support for such changes to the program. It remains unclear whether the chamber will approve the bipartisan proposal during a pro forma session or wait until the Senate returns on June 1.

Treasury and SBA Issue Rule on PPP Loan Forgiveness

On May 22, the Small Business Administration (SBA), in consultation with the Department of the Treasury, issued an interim final rule (IFR) related to loan forgiveness for the Paycheck Protection Program (PPP). The IFR retains the requirement that 75% of loan proceeds be used for payroll costs to receive full loan repayment, which has been a point of contention for the business community and may be repealed by Congress in the Paycheck Protection Program Flexibility Act. However, the SBA provides several other key clarifications to assist small business owners.

Since payroll cycles may not align neatly with the eight-week period eligible for forgiveness, the IFR provides flexibility to borrowers with bi-weekly or more frequent payroll cycles, by allowing them to use an alternative payroll covered period. Similarly, SBA clarifies that certain nonpayroll costs incurred during the eight weeks but paid by the next regular billing date will still be eligible for forgiveness even if that billing date falls outside the covered period.

SBA also provides several key clarifications related to reductions in loan forgiveness amounts. The IFR allows for full loan forgiveness if employees are rehired or salary levels are reestablished on or before June 30. Additionally, there will be no “double penalty” in that any loan forgiveness reductions due to changes in number of employees will not be counted toward any reductions related to changes in salary. The SBA establishes the exact process a borrower must follow to avoid a reduction in forgiveness for employees who reject rehiring offers and provides leniency for employers related to employees who are fired for cause, or voluntarily resign or request a reduced schedule.

SBA clarifies that, for purposes of the PPP, a “full-time equivalent employee” means an employee who works 40 hours or more on average each week and provides two options for how to calculate employees who were paid for less than 40 hours per week.

In addition, the IFR reaffirms the 60 days for the lender to review the loan forgiveness application and 90 days for the SBA to respond, clarifies that payroll costs are broadly defined as well as denoting payroll compensation for owner-employees and self-employed individuals, and provides additional information on loan forgiveness documentation.

In addition to this IFR, SBA and the Department of Treasury also released Interim Final Rule on SBA Loan Review Procedures and Related Borrower and Lender Responsibilities, information on the Lender Processing Fee Payment and 1502 Reporting Process, an Interim Final Rule on Second Extension of Limited Safe Harbor with Respect to Certification Concerning Need for PPP Loan and Lender Reporting, and updated its FAQs.

E&C Releases Oversight Agenda

House Energy and Commerce Committee Chair Frank Pallone (D-N.J.) and Oversight Subcommittee Chair Diana DeGette (D-Colo.) have released their COVID-19 oversight plan. The lawmakers also outline the actions taken by the panel thus far related to the federal government’s coronavirus response efforts. The subcommittee will continue its COVID-19 oversight in the following areas: testing and contact tracing, supply chains for personal protective equipment (PPE), vaccines and vaccine candidates, food safety and supply, and commitment to science and public health. The panel plans to hold its first oversight hearing on COVID-19 testing in the coming weeks, now that the House of Representatives has changed its rules to allow for remote hearings.

Lawmakers Seek National Vaccine Blueprint

A bipartisan group of lawmakers on the House Energy and Commerce Committee have written to White House coronavirus response coordinator Deborah Birx urging the administration to create national strategy for developing, manufacturing, and distributing eventual coronavirus vaccines and to publicize the plan to the greatest extent possible. The committee leaders warned that a national vaccination campaign will require significant preparation and coordination. The lawmakers also asked that the administration consider the decisions that will be necessary related to the allocation of vaccines. In addition, they requested a briefing on Operation Warp Speed and a response from the administration by June 4. The letter was signed by committee Chair Frank Pallone (D-N.J.), Ranking Member Greg Walden (R-Ore.), Oversight and Investigations Subcommittee Chair Diana DeGette (D-Colo.) and Ranking Member Brett Guthrie (R-Ky.).

Democrats Seek More Data on COVID Health Disparities

Several Democratic leaders have expressed concerns about a Trump administration report on COVID-19 disparities, which they believe fails to provide sufficient data on testing and demographics. The report was required under the Paycheck Protection Program and Health Care Enhancement Act. House Energy and Commerce Committee Chair Frank Pallone (D-N.J.) and Senate Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions (HELP) Committee Ranking Member Patty Murray (D-Wash.) stated that they will continue to push for sufficient information on the disproportionate impact of the coronavirus on communities of color. They argue that the administration's report relies on previously available data sets and fails to meet the basic requirements of the law.

Wyden, Murray Push for COVID-19 Coverage Expansion

A group of Senate Democrats have released a plan to expand health care coverage and affordability during the COVID-19 pandemic. The white paper from Senate Finance Committee Ranking Member Ron Wyden (D-Ore.), Senate Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions (HELP) Committee Ranking Member Patty Murray (D-Wash.), and Sens. Jeanne Shaheen (D-N.H.) and Tina Smith (D-Minn.) outlines legislative priorities to improve health coverage in response to the coronavirus crisis. Policies outlined in the paper would cover all costs for COVID-19 treatment, deliver subsidies for the cost of COBRA premiums for the newly unemployed, expand and increase access to premium tax credits to help families afford monthly premiums, incentivize Medicaid expansion, establish a federal special enrollment period, ban the sale of short-term limited duration plans, and restore funding for marketplace outreach and enrollment support. The proposal is supported by 33 other Senate Democrats.

New Data Released on Nursing Home Infection Controls

The Government Accountability Office (GAO) has released a new report detailing insufficient infection control practices in nursing homes. According to the government watchdog, the vast majority of the nation's nursing homes were cited for infection prevention and control problems in recent years, with 82 percent failing to meet federal standards at least once between 2013 and 2017. Half of nursing homes experienced persistent problems cited over multiple years. The GAO states that many practices, such as proper handwashing and isolating sick residents, are critical to preventing the spread of infectious diseases like COVID-19.

Azar Urged to Support Student Health Coverage

House Education and Labor Committee Chair Bobby Scott (D-Va.) and Senate Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions (HELP) Committee Ranking Member Patty Murray (D-Wash.) are asking the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) to help displaced college students maintain health insurance coverage amidst the coronavirus pandemic. In a letter to Secretary Alex Azar, the lawmakers point out that many students rely on insurance plans sponsored by universities. These individuals may face a gap in coverage as schools remain closed due to COVID-19.
